

Client-side Project Management

X4 Service Offering:

Why:

To answer the question: “How do we ensure our projects are managed well and provide value?”

Appropriate project and governance structure helps to aligned stakeholders and enable risks and issues to be identified and addressed. With strong project management you can have confidence in knowing how your project is tracking on the path towards successful delivery.

What's involved:

- We work with you to understand the business imperative and the nature of the project so that we can assist you in applying appropriate project rigors.
- Before or during initiation we can help validate the business rational for projects, establish good governance and drive realistic planning for both timelines and budget considerations.
- During the project we provide robust project processes relevant to the need and style of the project (agile, waterfall, etc.). This helps keep the team (client-side and implementation partner side) and project, moving towards successful delivery.

Deliverables:

- Experienced and professional project managers to help de-risk your project.
- Independent project management that aligns to your organisation's priorities and keeps both your team and your implementation provider accountable for their delivery budget and timelines.

Result:

- You get structure and good processes to help de-risk the delivery of your project.
- You get 'someone who has done this before' in your corner, working to keep the project on track.
